EVENT AT THE GUTIERREZ-HUBBELL HOUSE
ON JUNE 6TH FROM 9:00AM-12:00PM

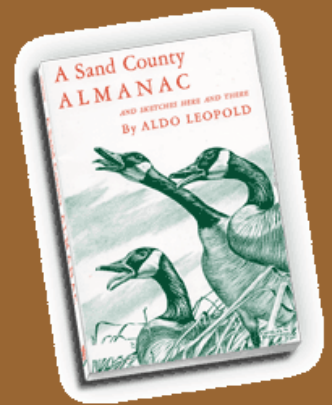

Esteemed speakers will read from the A Sand County Almanac and provide an open forum to contemplate and delve into the environmental messages of Aldo Leopold, founding father of conservation. This free event will be accompanied by local music and refreshments with a scenic backdrop of agriculture fields and the historic Gutierrez-Hubbell House.

Featured Readers:

- Mayor Martin J. Chávez, Mayor of the City of Albuquerque
- John Egbert, Former Director of the Nature Conservancy New Mexico Program
- Verne Huser, Chair of the Aldo Leopold Reading Series Committee

With this event, the Aldo Leopold Centennial Celebration is kicking off a New Mexico Reads Aldo Leopold, Reading Series. Throughout 2009, New Mexicans, including students and seniors, will be reading the works of Aldo Leopold's A Sand County Almanac to gain a greater awareness of Leopold's message of conservation, ecology and land ethics.

This event is part of the larger Aldo Leopold Centennial Celebration, 2009.

First 25 people to RSVP will receive a FREE copy of A Sand County Almanac.
